

FARMER BURNED TO DEATH

Hope Bobcats Play Tie Game Thursday Against Texarkana

Both Teams Score Points in First Quarter of the Game

NASHVILLE IS NEXT Final Game of the Season to Be Annual Clash With Nashville

The Hope High School Bobcats and the Texarkana Razorbacks played to a 7-7 tie in the home game of the season, the last home game of the season, when Lynn Harrell, Harrell, Bobcat half-back, tossed a short pass to Bill Wray, quarterback, who was downed on Texarkana's one-yard line. On the next play, a plunge over the center of the line, Wray carried the ball over, Harrell plunged the line for the extra point.

Soon after, Hope was penalized 15 yards for roughness and on the next play Texarkana completed a pass. Taylor to Owens, who ran 35 yards for the touchdown. Neild hit center and dived over for the extra point.

Texarkana made many gains through Hope's line and several nice gains around end, but their much-heralded passing attack failed to materialize. On the other hand, Hope made most of its gains on runs by Wray and Bacon as well as completing several passes for gains. Hope completed six out of seven, for gains of 30 yards. Texarkana made two out of six, for 60 yards. Hope made 10 first downs to Texarkana's 14.

Late in the last quarter of the game Hope made a determined drive half way up the field only to veer back on a penalty of 31 yards against Captain Reeves for unnecessary roughness. Reeves played a nice game and withstood the fact that he was penalized several times and finally put out of the game. Hope completed several long passes in the final period of the game, Pritchett, Hope end catching most of them.

Nashville is last Hope's next game will be with the Nashville Scorpions on the Nashville gridiron Turkey Day. This is expected to be a hard game as the Nashville boys have made a good record and are pointing for this game as much as Hope was pointing for the Prescott game. Games in the past between the Hope and Nashville teams have been about evenly divided and both teams will have plenty of fight. Many Hope fans will journey to the Howard county town for the tilt.

Man Sentenced By Use of Morse Code

Prisoner Tapped Out His Sentence to Judge Who Replies

DETROIT.—(U.P.)—Two old-timers of an ancient and honorable calling fraternized in recorder's court today—one from the Judge's bench and the other from the prisoner's dock.

Christopher Benny, 50, was arraigned before Judge Christopher Stein on a charge of intoxication.

"I've done telegraph" he said the last 20 years," said Benny.

Judge Stein was skeptical—the more so because somewhere back in his varied career he too had "done telegraph."

"Very well," he said. "If you're a telegrapher, take this pencil and tell me what sentence I ought to give you."

Benny took the pencil and tapped it on the table in a mysterious clatter of little sounds.

Judge Stein grinned took up his gavel, and tapped out a response. The court stenographer was on the verge of a breakdown when Judge Stein translated the Morse code conversation as follows:

Benny: "Suspended sentence, your honor."
Judge: "Okay."

Arkansas Bank to Reopen in 10 Days, Unofficial Report

To Follow Plan Already Adopted By Several Other Banks

LOCAL INSTITUTION

Directors Believed to Have Completed Plan With State Officials

The Arkansas Bank & Trust Co., which suspended payment here Monday, will probably open again for business within ten days.

The plan will probably follow along the lines of programs already worked out by several banking units which have re-opened or are preparing to re-open since last Monday's suspension.

The minority interest held by A. B. Banks, or his associates, will be severed, it is understood, and ownership of the bank will be 100 per cent local.

Oklahoman Slain By Fellow Tennant

Witnesses of Fight Say Ft. Smith Slayer Fired First

FORT SMITH—Tom Jordan is dead from gunshot wounds and Oscar Medlin, is in jail at Sallisaw, Okla., following a shooting affray on the Pink Shaw farm near Pawpaw, Okla., five miles southeast of Fort Smith late Thursday. No charges have been filed against Medlin, who surrendered to Sheriff George Cheek early last night.

Jordan and Medlin were tenants on the Shaw farm, Sheriff Cheek said. They are said to have become engaged in an argument over a set of harness several days ago. Later, Jordan alleged to have been drinking, went to Medlin's house to get a bucket of water, Jordan was armed with a pistol, Sheriff Cheek said.

After Jordan had accosted Medlin, Cheek said, Medlin went into his house and obtained a shotgun. As he emerged, Jordan fired at him with a pistol and Medlin killed him with a charge from the shotgun, witnesses told the sheriff.

One Killed When Boiler Explodes

Another May Lose Sight After Terrific Blast Near Rogers

ROGERS.—Harold Holman, age 50, is dead and Jake Townsend, 30, is in a local hospital in a serious condition as a result of the explosion of a boiler at a sawmill on Sugar creek, four miles north of Rogers, about 10 a. m. today.

Holman, an employee of the mill was killed instantly when a side of the boiler struck him. He also was crushed by heavy timbers and a smoke stack that fell on him.

Townsend, a son of Charles Townsend, owner of the mill, was firing the boiler when the explosion occurred. He was blown for more than 100 feet, landing in a creek. His face, limbs and parts of his body were burned badly. His condition is serious but not dangerous, although it is feared that he may lose his sight.

The top of the boiler was blown through the timber for more than 100 yards, cutting away tree tops and limbs.

A wheel was torn from a log wagon about 50 feet from the boiler, the torn tire was wrapped about the trunk of a fallen tree and the hub was found in a hillside several hundred feet away.

A tube from the boiler struck one of the mules hitched to the wagon, seriously injuring the animal. He exploded was heard for more than a mile, the concussion rattling windows almost that far away.

Holman is survived by his wife and nine children.

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—E. C. Lohr, former army officer, was scheduled to go on trial Friday for the slaying of his wife and mother-in-law, who were shot in their apartment last summer.

Fire at 2:20 A. M.

An investigation of the ruins of the frame house disclosed Mr. McIver's watch which had stopped at 2:20 a. m., apparently fixing the hour at which the house was destroyed. A pocketknife and some small change was also found among the man's personal effects.

There was apparently no evidence of foul play, although many rumors started, one of which claimed that McIver had withdrawn considerable money from a bank and might have had it in the house at the time of the fire. This story was disputed, however, and Coroner J. H. Weaver, after viewing the body and the fire scene early Friday, announced that no inquest would be necessary.

Two Brothers Survive

Mr. McIver was one of three living brothers, being survived by Arch W. and W. L. McIver, both of Homestead county. The McIver brothers, born in Homestead and Howard, are a pioneer family. Their father, John W. McIver, came from Raleigh, N. C., a generation ago. Their mother, the former Emily Anderson, was from Kentucky.

The Rise of Politics

POLITICS is seldom a very pretty spectacle. Most people in this country do not have a very high regard for the tricks of the political game; nor are they apt to be surprised at any unseemly deals or maneuvers that are made in the course of a political scheme.

Nevertheless, it is worth noticing that politics today is conducted on a far higher plane than it used to be. We may have politicians now who cut a sorry spectacle, but they are figures of goodness and light compared with some of their predecessors of a generation or two earlier.

For proof of this, the reader is referred to the book, "The Age of Hate," by George Fort Milton, which describes the struggle of the "radical" Republicans against President Andrew Johnson in the years immediately following the Civil war. The political plots and practices disclosed in this book make politics of the present day look clean and wholesome.

President Johnson was committed to a program of kindness, decency and tolerance in the reconstruction of the south following the war. Congress was in the control of a clique headed by such men as Senator Charles Sumner of Massachusetts, Representative Thad Stevens of Pennsylvania and the unspeakable Ben Butler; and this clique was determined to grind the southland down in the most oppressive manner possible.

Because Johnson stood out against him, they sought to impeach him. The House of Representatives held extensive hearings, found nothing substantial to base impeachment on, and then voted to impeach him anyway! The Senate proceeded to try the case—with Senator Sumner contemptuously declaring that they did not really need to hear the evidence, as they were going to convict him regardless!

The account of the impeachment trial is sorry stuff. The case against the president fell completely flat. Nevertheless, the clique put all kinds of pressure on wavering senators to force them to vote for conviction. Bribes were offered, threats were made, constituents back home were induced to bombard the wavering senators with telegrams—everything possible was done to compel a vote that the evidence did not justify.

Fortunately the efforts failed, and the impeachment was not sustained. But the story of the trial, and the plotting that preceded and accompanied it, is dismal reading—unbelievably mean, sordid and corrupt. Bad as politics of today may be, it at least could not produce such a spectacle as that. We have made a real improvement.

Affairs in Nicaragua

FOUR years ago the United States government landed a sizable detachment of marines in Nicaragua, forcibly stopped a civil war that was in progress, and undertook to provide the Nicaraguans with a presidential election that would be entirely fair and honest.

At that time there was a good deal of criticism of our government's action in this country. However, the proof of the pudding lies in the eating of it; and a fair way to appraise our intervention is to cast a glance at the record of the administration voted into office in that marine-supervised election.

The Foreign Policy Association has just issued a study of the Nicaraguan situation by Raymond Leslie Buell that is of considerable interest.

General Jose Marie Moncada was elected president in this election, and took office on January 1, 1929, for a four-year term. Mr. Buell points out that he has already made a number of material improvements in his country's affairs.

To begin with, the governmental budget showed a healthy surplus at the end of his first year in office, and while other Central American countries have been forced by the business depression to suspend payments of salaries to teachers and other officials, Nicaragua has not had to do so. Nearly 100 miles of roads were paved, and a highway from Atlantic coast to the Pacific has been begun.

The number of schools has been doubled, work has been done to improve agriculture and public health, the railroad has been nationalized—and made to show a healthy profit—and, in Mr. Buell's words, "one hears less of the corrupt use of government funds in Nicaragua today than in any other Central American country."

To be sure, the millennium has not yet arrived. Members of the Conservative party (opposed to President Moncada and the liberals) contend that the president has proceeded with severity against political enemies and has restricted the freedom of the press. The American trained national guard does not seem to be functioning perfectly yet, there is still some resentment over the part America has played in the whole situation.

On the whole, however, Nicaragua seems to be a good deal better off because of the marine-controlled election. American intervention may have been unwise in the first place; but even if that point is granted, the officials seem to have made the best of a bad bargain.

You can't make an ass of a man, but you can give him a little authority and let nature take its course.

It isn't hard to build a resort town. Just stock up on a lot of silly souvenirs and charge too much.

Looks Like That New Kid Next Door's Gonna Turn Out to Be a Reg'lar Fellow!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—It would be extremely instructive if anyone could analyze in their proportionate importance the various factors which led to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's crushing defeat by James Hamilton Lewis in the Illinois senatorial election.

Mrs. McCormick was the first serious woman contender for the Senate and she was buried under one of the biggest individual landslides ever seen. In proportion to the total vote, the Lewis Democratic majority of around 700,000 was even larger than Governor Roosevelt's in New York. And it was rolled up in a normally Republican state where Republican presidential majorities have averaged around 740,000 for the last three elections.

The same issues affected Mrs. McCormick that hit Republicans in other big industrial states. She also suffered from some which she created herself. But the size of the Lewis landslide also raises the interesting questions whether the Republican candidate's sex militated against her in the minds of the voters and whether a woman of a different type could have done any better. Anyway, few candidates ever reached election day with so many nervous handclaps. You know, of course, about the economic situation, the tariff and the fact that Illinois is markedly wet. All those things worked against Ruth.

Failed to Hold Wets

After campaigning in the primary and winning nomination as a dry, she said she was still a dry, but would vote in accordance with the Illinois referendum. It seemed political wisdom, especially as her party's state platform called for it. But the designed effect of holding Republican wetting lines was not attained. The organized dries deserted Mrs. McCormick and backed a third candidate, Mrs. Lottie O'Neill, at least 100,000 of whose votes must have been taken from Mrs. McCormick.

It had been guessed all along that the political gang of Senator Charles Deneen, her defeated primary opponent, would try to knife her in the campaign. Undoubtedly it did. And when Bill Thompson came out against her, it was obvious she would lose Chicago by a large majority. Thompson had supported her in the primary and she doubtless anticipated the same support in November without making a deal for it.

Conway Theater Manager Fined For Sunday Show

CONWAY—Pleading guilty to a charge of Sabbath breaking, Jesse Hutson, manager of the Conway theatre, was fined $1 and costs, a total of $1.85, by Justice J. A. Reid here today. Hutson paid the fine, which probably will be appealed. The charge was the result of the operation of the theatre Sunday as a Red Cross benefit.

Ages of 10 British High Judges Total 700 Years

LONDON.—(U.P.)—The ages of ten judges sitting on the King's Bench aggregate nearly 7000 years. Lord Hewart, the Lord Chief Justice, is 70.

Doctors attribute the high average age of the judges as a class to the fact that they are appointed so late in their careers, usually having already attained success as lawyers or bench.

Lord Hewart was appointed at 32. Justice Eve, Senior Chancery Judge, is 74, appointed at 51; Lord Merrivale, head of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty division, is 75.

Whale Places Self In Role of Guest

LONDON.—(U.P.)—The Prince of Wales is noted for his quickness of repartee, and many are the tales that are told—some true, some otherwise—of his witty tongue.

The latest of these tales is not

McCormick. Unquestionably Mrs. McCormick's promise lost many more votes than it saved.

Up to that time Ruth was the favorite to win.

Senate investigators revealed that she had spent a third of a million dollars to be nominated, and that hurt her some. Other things being equal, such disclosures do not defeat a candidate; Illinois elected Frank Smith to the Senate despite campaign contributions of $125,000 from Samuel Insull, whose utilities he had been charged with regulating. Possibly the Senate's refusal to seat Smith may have influenced voters to believe Mrs. McCormick would meet a like fate if elected, although she spent her own money.

Shadowed Nye

At first she contented herself with an able defense of her expenditures, which attracted sympathy. Then she hired detectives to shadow Chairman Nye of the Senate committee, boldly and defiantly admitting it when the fact became known. Thereupon she lost more sympathy than she had gained.

Meanwhile Lewis, the pink-whiskered fox, never let himself get on the defensive. He gently spoofed "the lady" without overdoing it. Mrs. McCormick, although facing a man 12 years older of the Senate and by most rules a political has-been, was helpless.

The dominant issues of dissatisfaction and prohibition were on his side and she couldn't escape it. World Court? Lewis was against that, too.

It had been guessed all along that the political gang of Senator Charles Deneen, her defeated primary opponent, would try to knife her in the campaign. Undoubtedly it did. And when Bill Thompson came out against her, it was obvious she would lose Chicago by a large majority. Thompson had supported her in the primary and she doubtless anticipated the same support in November without making a deal for it.

LONDON.—(U.P.)—The ages of ten judges sitting on the King's Bench aggregate nearly 7000 years. Lord Hewart, the Lord Chief Justice, is 70.

Doctors attribute the high average age of the judges as a class to the fact that they are appointed so late in their careers, usually having already attained success as lawyers or bench.

Lord Hewart was appointed at 32. Justice Eve, Senior Chancery Judge, is 74, appointed at 51; Lord Merrivale, head of the Probate, Divorce and Admiralty division, is 75.

Story of Man to Be Traced at Chicago

Reproduction of Maya Temple One of Feature Exhibits

CHICAGO.—(U.P.)—The mounds, ruins, temples, religious symbols and other traces of cultural attainment comprising the language in which the archeologist and anthropologist read the story of the progress of human culture.

While the Chicago World's Fair in 1933 will have as its central theme the conquests of a Century of Progress made possible by scientific achievement in transportation, the telephone and radio, lightning, machine of production, medicine and education, back of all this is the story of Man himself. This is the theme of the anthropological exhibit.

Twelve acres have been reserved for the story of man's culture on American soil.

Social organization, ceremonial life and artistic ideas show the same regional differences, and if man's body is studied it becomes apparent that physical type likewise shows variation, according to Dr. Fay-Cooper Cole, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago.

When the American Indian cultures are plotted on the map they fall into nine distinct culture areas north of Mexico. These range from the primitive hunting groups to settle agriculture.

In connection with these groupings the Anthropological Exposition is designed to answer questions concerning the relation of culture to environment, the effect of trade, warfare, inter-marriage and migrations on institutions and physical types.

In the allotted space the separate groups will be arranged in geographical relation to one another, and with native Indians and Eskimo present to depict their daily life and tribal customs.

These groups include besides the Eskimo, the California Indians of the Northwest Coast, the Blackfoot hunter of the great plains, the pueblo builders and the nomadic Navajos, expert horsemen and sheep herders.

"Finally," says Dr. Cole, "comes the greatest achievement of early man in America—a great Maya temple. On a huge terrace overlooking the surrounding territory will be an exact reproduction of the four buildings comprising the famous nunnery at Uxmal in Yucatan."

Within the temple will be exhibits depicting the life of man from the embryo to adult life. Here the visitor will see the races of man, the effects of race crossing, problems of growth and other more technical subjects. Here also will appear a section of one of the great pre-historic caves of France, so excavated that the growth of human culture and the changes in man's body can be traced over a period of 50,000 years.

Autographed Telegrams Worry French Playboys

PARIS.—(U.P.)—The forthcoming experiments in the Paris post office with autographed telegrams will be closely watched by those whose sporting instincts often lead them far from the family fireside.

Telegrams, not only reproduced in the exact handwriting of the sender, but bearing the sender's autograph may be possible.

The French column writers are already beginning to point out the great oysters are eaten and the prevalence of typhoid fever. Popular tradition declares oysters eaten in months without R's generally results in typhoid. He cited statistics showing the towns where oysters were eaten the year around are comparatively free from fever, the number of cases being generally less in months without R's than during the R months.

Oklahoma Lady Says She Obtained Relief by Taking Black-Draught.

Tahlequah, Okla.—"We have used Theford's Black-Draught in my home. I find it the best medicine for sick headache and biliousness I have ever tried."

"Sometimes I have spells when everything seems dark before my eyes and I feel dizzy. I have to lie down or I would fall. When I feel such an attack coming on, I take Black-Draught and make a tea out of it, which I take in small sips for several days. The dizziness quickly passes off after I take Black-Draught, and I feel fine."

"I gave my little grandchild Black-Draught not long ago. She was bilious and this made her grow and languid. I made a tea of the Black-Draught and gave it to her, and very soon she was up, playing 'round the house.'"

For years I have kept Theford's Black-Draught in my home. I find it the best medicine for sick headache and biliousness I have ever tried.

A Meteor Used Him as a Target!

Few motorists ever had a narrow escape quite like the one that 17-year-old Lawrence Swank of Grandfordsville, Ind., had recently. A blazing fragment from a falling meteor zipped over the top of his car as he was driving home at night, crashed through the hood, emerged through the radiator and dug a hole in the concrete pavement. Swank is shown here with his damaged car.

MOM'N POP

While speeding home from the big hog in Uncle Mike Finnegan's car, with the gang aboard, a milk-wagon came out of the darkness, directly in chick's path.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church held an all day service at the church yesterday at which time Mrs. Dorsey McRae reviewed the Home Mission Study Book, "Our Near Neighbors." During this review two quilts were quilted by the ladies with Mrs. L. Becker as chairman for the Orphans Home in Monticello. Mrs. C. C. McNeill at the piano played appropriate music as each chapter relating to the different countries was reviewed, which added much zest and interest. Miss Mamie Twitchell read a very clever poem. At noon a most tempting lunch was served on one long table, each lady present having contributed her own lunch, which was served by the lunch committee with Mrs. J. L. Meyers as chairman assisted by Mrs. W. R. Anderson and others. About 30 ladies were present.

More than 5,500 frogs and turtles have been brought for science classes at the University of Oklahoma at a cost of $314.

Charm Store Is a Charm For Paris

Many Charms Kept In Stock to Keep the Spirits Away

PARIS, Nov.—(U.P.)—There is a little shop along the Rue de la Paix aptly described by a single word—'charm.' Here you will find fashioned in ever conceivable metal, precious stone, even wood and enamel tiny little charms to be hung on a watch chain, a bracelet, or made into a whole necklace.

There are charms to keep the evil spirits away, charms to entice good luck your way and there is such an infinite variety of objects, small replicas of almost everything we use and do in everyday life. There are all kinds of kitchen utensils, pots, pans, kettles, stoves. Little bronze and silver images of all nationalities, dolls and toys; infinitesimal knives, forks and spoons, glasses and goblets; ever kind of sports has its tiny representative in the form of a tennis racket, ball, golf sticks, horse and polo rider, dogs for the hunt, birds, guns, swimmers, boats automobiles and bicycles.

For those who are not superstitious there is a letter 13, a black cat, a man walking under a ladder and all other symbols of misfortune.

Tiny airplanes made of diamonds with clear smooth bagget wings are almost unbelievable in such small perfection. If one loves old mediaeval armor and helmets with heavy face coverings, just across the street there is a jewelry shop with two of these wrought exquisitely in diamonds outlined in thread-like lines of black enamel, onyx and jet.

Governor Gives Hunters Advice

Dan Moody, Governor of Texas, Considered "Good Shot"

AUSTIN, Tex.—(U.P.)—Governor Dan Moody, who besides being head of the state government, is one of Texas' best shots, gives this advice for successful duck hunting:

"Choose a cloudy day with little wind. Remember that the duck is a fast flyer. The teal goes at the rate of 120 miles an hour. When you shoot allow for that fast flying."

Governor Moody's advice to choose a hunting day with what aviators would term a "low ceiling" and little wind is approved by other successful gulf hunters. In clear weather ducks fly high, which makes bad shooting. When there is little wind the surface of the water on which they light to feed is smooth. Flying overhead they can see the edible grasses, wild rice or other morsels. As they swoop down to land on this feeding spot, the hunter has his chance.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

Slattery's Decision
 A decision over King Slattery was reached by the Chicago and the fans of the Chicago Cubs. The decision was a referee, a lawyer and a butcher went 2 to 1 for Slattery. The bout was held in Chicago and Jimmy Slattery's home is in Buffalo. Slattery's home is in Buffalo. Slattery's home is in Buffalo.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
 KING LEVINSKY, the Chicago light heavyweight (no relation to the veteran Battling Levinsky), is said to be one of the old school of cauliflowerers so far as knowledge of the outside world is concerned. His manager spoke one day to him thus: "Got a match for you next week, boy, Flint, Michigan." To which the King responded, "And how much does he weigh?" They tell another tale on the King to the effect that he was troubled with sore feet for several weeks and his mentor sent him to a chiropodist. The trouble was easy to find. . . . Levinsky was wearing his foot coverings juxtaposed, as it were, the left shoe on the right foot, and the right shoe on the left. . . . Another time, a copper stopped a suspicious-looking crowd in a touring car and asked Levinsky his occupation. . . . To which the King replied, "Jewish."

Those Rigid Rules
 It is like getting nasty with the Big Ten professors who told that Northwestern must play Notre Dame in Northwestern's small stadium at Evanston because of a conference rule against playing away from a Big Ten stadium. The other day in Yankee Stadium, New York, Big Ten, that would be nasty indeed, and we are not going to ask it.

Coin for Cagle
 They say they are paying Christian K. Cagle, the former basketball star, $20,000 a year to play for the professional New York Giants. Cagle will remain at Starville, Miss., where he coaches the A. M. College team until the college season is ended, after which he will join the Giants. Mr. Cagle also has a journalistic contract with a New York newspaper that pays him fairly well. Are all red-headed people like this?

Let the Band Play!
 Just in passing, we were wondering if Coach Bob Zuppke of the University of Illinois didn't wish sometimes that the Illinois football team was a band.

Suggestions For Storage of Turnips

The Statistics Show That There Is Food Value in This Crop

Since there is a large crop of turnips in the county and since they cannot be readily sold, they should be properly stored for winter use as food for livestock. According to Lynn Smith, county agent, dairy authorities state that turnips are worth from $8 to $9 per ton for feed for milk cows when fed with other feeds during the winter when green feed is not available. Following is a method which has been used successfully by some of our farmers for many years.

Select a well drained location convenient to the house or feed lot, depending upon whether the turnips are to be used as food for the family or feed for livestock, and dig a shallow pit 3 to 4 inches deep and about 3 1/2 feet wide. In the bottom of this place a layer of straw or leaves about 1 to 2 inches deep. Harvest the turnips, cutting off the tops about 1-2 to 1 inch above the turnip then haul them to the storage pit. Begin at one end and pile the turnips in a cone shape making the pile as long as is necessary to accommodate the lot to be stored. If a large amount is to be stored, a small amount of dirt should be put in about mid way from top to bottom of the pile. This is to lessen a tendency to heat. Handle the turnips carefully so as to avoid all possible bruises. When the heap is finished then cover over with a layer of straw, leaves or corn stalks and on top of this a layer of soil 3 to 6 inches deep. It is only necessary to cover over enough to prevent the turnips from freezing in storage. Storage should not be attempted until the weather gets fairly cold, or until the time when heavy frosts occur. If banked in warm weather they are likely to start growth and cause trouble. No shelter is needed for the pit but it must be fixed so that water will not stand in the pit. If this can't be prevented in any other way a ridge should be thrown up and the turnips stored on top of this in the way suggested. Let's not allow the turnips to go to waste when they have a feeding value of their dry matter content half equal to that of grain.

New York State to Own Grave of Baron Steuben

ALBANY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Title to the grave of Baron Steuben, who aided the American colonists during the Revolutionary War, and 50 acres of land surrounding it in the town of Steuben, Oneida county, will be acquired shortly by the state. It was announced today at the office of Alexander Macdonald, conservation commissioner. The price involved is $3,500.

An agreement with the Particular Baptist Church of Rensselaer, owner of the property, was reached in September, but objections by several trustees of the church delayed execution of a contract. The legislature last winter appropriated $10,000 for acquisition of the land.

Baron Steuben was a German general, whose military knowledge proved a great value to the Colonists. He served as inspector general under George Washington.

40,000 See Iowa Lad Win Corn-Husking Title

Forty thousand people gathered in a field near Norton, Kansas, to see Fred Stanek win his fourth corn-husking championship in competition with huskers from seven leading corn-producing states. This picture shows the contest, with some of the spectators using a haystack for a grandstand in the background; inset is Stanek, who comes from Webster county, Iowa, and who husked 30 bushels of corn, net, in 80 minutes.

Do-X Built Strong To Stand Hardships

Giant Flying Yacht Embodies All Modern Luxuries

NEW YORK.—(U.P.)—Travel more luxurious and swift than Jules Verne's most imaginative flights of fancy is embodied in the DO-X, giant flying yacht, now pioneering an air route across the Atlantic.

The biggest of the Dornier Walrus, much larger than the whale after which it is named—is a three deck affair. Stripped of its thick, wide wings, which spread 157 feet from tip to tip, it still is as large as a medium sized yacht, and in its air journeys it is run very much on the same plan.

The ship is designed to accommodate, normally, about seventy passengers comfortably, although in its initial test at Lake Constance, Switzerland, it carried 169 persons. However, the necessity of carrying additional fuel on the trans-Atlantic trip reduced the passenger capacity to about 15. On a route such as New York to Bermuda the normal gasoline capacity would be sufficient and 70 passengers could be carried regularly.

Public quarters occupy the main deck. In the extreme fore part of the light but sturdy duralumin hull is the anchor and cable for use when the boat is in harbor; abaft that is a water tight bulkhead, which is used for storing baggage.

The next compartment is the bar, and behind that is the smoking room. The bar is equipped with an electric refrigerator, and the smoking room

Parking Problem In Chicago Ended

Real Estate Produces Revenue While Awaiting Building

CHICAGO.—(U.P.)—Automobiles and the necessity of parking them provide uses for real estate which otherwise might be no-productive of income. The vacant lot, convenient to the business district, offers its owner a chance of income if he will use the ground for parking space until the proper time for building.

For parking space in bad weather for men who drive to their office and for the theatre patrons, multi-story garages have been erected on property adjacent to the business district of cities.

A 25 story garage now in operation in New York City is estimated to house as many automobiles as could be parked in 10 square blocks. Detroit has an eleven-story garage for more than 7,200 cars and one in Chicago that holds 1,000 cars.

The motorist of today who runs out of gas is more likely to be within a short distance of one of the 350,000 filling stations on vacant lots.

The auto laundry, too, is demanding location. One California concern is planning to start 200 auto laundries.

Fruit and vegetable sippers are now opening drive-in markets. In Los Angeles there are 104 such markets. Dallas, Texas, has several stores built back from the curb to allow parking space. Oklahoma City and Houston, Texas, have public markets with parking space for automobiles.

Tourist camps those transient colonies of cabins have created a new use for real estate along main highways.

China Names Deadline For Camera Fanatics

SHANGHAI.—(U.P.)—Japan is no longer to monopolize the gentle art of harassing Far East tourists with picture-taking propensities.

Hard on the National Government's announcement that more rigid passport regulations are to be enforced against foreign visitors comes word that photography of strategic points along the northern coast of China is henceforth forbidden.

Among the places named are Huludao, China's new northern port; Chingwangtao, a freight debarkation point visited by many steamships carrying travelers; and Taku, at the entrance of the Hai Ho, the river which leads up to Tientsin, gateway to Peiping.

Neither here, nor in Japan, is it considered by foreigners that any special purpose can be served by such restrictions, since visitors may go freely to the points where photography is forbidden and "enemies" would have no difficulty in obtaining the views forbidden to the casual tourist.

London's Population Shows Slight Decrease

LONDON.—(U.P.)—A startling decline in population, the lowest birth rate on record and an increasing number of marriages, are revealed in the annual report of Dr. F. N. Kay Menzies, medical officer for health and London county council school medical officer.

The population of London was 4,524,000 in 1921 and was given as 4,430,000 a drop of 94,000, in the middle of 1929. Marriages numbered approximately 45,301 in London in 1929, 19.1 per thousand of the population as compared with 18.9 in 1928.

There were 70,089 births in 1929 as compared with 72,352 in the preceding year. Authorities said the number of births were fewer by 887 than in 1918 when the influence of the world war was at its height.

Paris Scene of Battle For Wealthy Tourists

PARIS.—(U.P.)—The place de l'Opera, the hub of Paris has been turned into a battle on which Germany and Italy are fighting France for tourists.

Germany recently advanced her front line trenches when she secured a valuable corner on the famous square and opened a glittering "Come to Germany" tourist office.

Comfortable lounging chairs with newspapers in many languages in easy reach make it a restful haven for the tired tourist.

Right across the street an Italian navigation company has established a propaganda office over which is a blinding electric sign "Visit Italy." Both the German and Italian tourist offices offer cheap excursion rates.

Army Holds Fortune in Soldier Liberty Bonds

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—Thousands of dollars worth of Liberty Bonds are held by the War Department awaiting the claim of soldiers who bought but did not collect them during the World war.

This was revealed in the annual report of Maj.-Gen. Roderick L. Carmichael to Secretary of War Hurley.

"Of the total of approximately $60,000,000 of Liberty Bonds purchased by the Army through the allotment system during the war, there remains on hand yet undelivered a total of $26,400," the report said. "As practically every means of locating the allottees have been exhausted, these bonds are now held awaiting any claims that may be received."

That portion of the report dealing with the army's financial status said virtually all bills more than 30 days old had been paid.

Lawyers Seeking Levine's Release

Police Say They Have Evidence Sufficient to Hold American

VIENNA.—(AP)—Attorneys for Charles A. Levine, American who is under formal charges of having prepared to counterfeit a foreign coinage said Wednesday night they believed they would be able to obtain his release on bail Thursday.

They added that a French commission, which was expected here to determine if Levine was endangering the French monetary system, was not coming and that the case would be tried on the evidence obtained so far. The police said tonight that they have sufficient evidence for sending Levine before the Superior Court, charging that he had attempted to buy from an engraver 90 separate dies at a cost of $13,000.

Vienna newspapers protested to the police because they had not been permitted to take pictures of the prisoner. This compelled them to use photographs taken in 1927 which depicted Levine wearing the highest order of merit of Austria, conferred on him by the president for his valiant flight with Clarence Chamberlain from New York to Germany in 1927.

British Planes May Enter Races For Cup

LONDON.—(U.P.)—Indication that the British government is reconsidering its decision not to participate in the 1931 Schneider Trophy races is seen in instructions that have been given for the construction of new floats for the Supermarine S6 and Gloster-Napier seaplanes built for the 1929 races.

The new floats are to be larger and with a greater gasoline capacity (the gasoline tanks for the races were in the floats) than the floats used in the 1929 race.

Entries for next year's race must be in by December 31. Both Italy and France are known to be constructing secretly high-speed seaplanes to attack Great Britain's supremacy, and as soon as it is definitely known that either or both these countries intend to compete, representatives of the Royal Aero Club will confer with the Air Ministry regarding arrangements for the race.

Summer Hard Time For Japanese Snakes

TOKYO.—(U.P.)—The summer of 1939 was a hard one on the snake population of Japan, despite the fact some Buddhist sects consider the wrigglers sacred reptiles and worship at snake shrines.

Not only were snakes pursued for food, but also for their skins which have enjoyed widespread popularity for the manufacture of women's shoes, covers for walking canes, purses and card cases. The Railway Ministry reports that more than 20 tons of snake skins were shipped from rural districts into the cities during the summer.

Siam to Banish Mongrel Dogs to Lonely Islands

BANGKOK, Siam.—(U.P.)—Bangkok's mongrel dogs, which long have been a major pest are to be banished to uninhabited islands to die natural deaths instead of being poisoned. Female dogs will be banished to one island and male dogs another. Buddhist aversion to the taking of life caused the police to abandon their former method of Borgia extermination.

Distributing Food to New York's Needy

Packages of food for New York City's needy families now are being distributed throughout the city by police and members of the department of sanitation. This photo shows one of the lines as hundreds of aged and unemployed persons received cartons of provisions from the centers of distribution. During the first two days of the new relief plan, 14,000 families were given 600,000 pounds of food. The Mayor's Committee has determined to order an additional 4,500,000 pounds to meet the estimated requirements of the remainder of the year.
